For many years I've been blessed to share a piece of my heart and soul through the pages of Cooking with Paula Deen. I truly believe that food has a way of bringing people together, and this magazine is a testament to that. It welcomes readers into my home to experience what I hold most dear: family, friends, and delicious Southern food.

In every issue of Cooking with Paula Deen, you can expect to find family-friendly recipes that are both delicious and approachable.

I always include five easy and accessible meals with time-saving tips and a shopping list to help get you through those busy weeknights. I also make use of my trusty cast-iron skillet, humble slow cooker, and handy-dandy air fryer to create delicious dishes that I know your family will just gobble up. Y'all know I love my sweet sons, Bobby and Jamie, so of course, they're part of each issue, sharing useful recipes and dinnertime tips that work well for their families. No matter which column or feature you turn to, tasty, seasonal dishes are sure to follow.

I have a feeling that 2021 is going to be what you make it, so let's make it special by celebrating traditional values and remembering simpler times. And if we can make memories over comforting food and conversation, well, that's even better. With down-home recipes at the ready, my hope is that each and every issue of Cooking with Paula Deen magazine inspires y'all to cook your way through the year with full hearts and full bellies.

Come to your senses!

Though it might be hard to believe right now, the autumn months are just around the corner. And when these first hints of a chill hit the air, there's nothing we love more than cozying up to a honey fall supper. Bonus points if it's on the table quickly!

Enter the busy weeknight's new best friend: The Signature Series CanCooker by Seth McClen. It cooks delicious meals in under an hour using a convection steam environment that keeps meals healthy, tender, and full of flavor. We developed this Chicken Breast with Bacon-Cranberry Stuffing with fall flavors in mind and the CanCooker is the perfect vessel to make this simple supper come to life.

The CanCooker's latched lid locks in heat and steam, making fast work of cooking raw ingredients. It can be used indoors or outdoors on virtually any cooktop.

The lightweight CanCooker's Ceramic Can has a non-stick, durable, and food-safe coating that makes for easy and FAST cleanup. It can be washed with soap or by simply adding an inch of water back to the can and bringing it to a boil.

With the capacity to prepare 8 to 10 servings in a single session, the CanCooker is the easy, convenient solution you need to make back-to-school weeknights a breeze!

We love the CanCooker so much, we're hosting a special giveaway!

Enter now for your chance to win a CanCooker Signature Series, CanCooker Cookbook Volume II, and a one-year subscription to one of the following magazines: Louisiana Country, Cooking with Paula Deen, or Taste of the South.

The giveaway ends August 15. Good luck!
