taste OF THE south

The main focus of Taste of the South is to bring classic Southern foods to the modern supper table. Through our recipes and editorial content, we hope to inspire people to share meals and foodcentric experiences with friends and family and be able to do so with ease. Our readers often cite our magazine as one of their favorites to find the food they grew up on while also learning something new.

In 2023, we're staying true to tradition while also exploring what the future of Southern food holds. Starting the year with a focus on comfort food, our January/February issue offers classic dishes like sweet dumplings and new ways with upside-down cakes while exploring who and what makes the South the unique culinary region that it is. Our March/April issue and the start of spring brings Texas sheet cake, seasonally focused meals with carrots and spring greens, and great tips for cooking like a Southern grandma. As we enter the summer months, we bring two issues packed with recipes that celebrate an abundant harvest—from summer pies and cobblers to fried green tomatoes to watermelon, peaches, and tomatoes. The Taste 50 Awards return in our July/August issue, where we feature our favorite products, people, and trends in Southern food. As we wrap up the year, we take a trip to the Appalachian Mountains for a holiday festival and fill our tables with the comfort meals that cold weather implores in three recipe-packed issues.

In each issue, you'll find our tried-and-true departments like Cast Iron Favorites, At the Table, Cooking Class, and Southern Staples. One of our most popular features is New Ways, where we explore a traditional or classic Southern dish and reinterpret those ingredients and flavors into something just as tasty but with a twist, like chicken and dumplings reinvented into a sage-chicken salad with fried dumpling crackers. Or explore an area of the South in Southern Bound, where we've visited places like Atlanta's Buford Highway. Readers can also look forward to the authentic Southern voices of Facebook phenomenon and cookbook author Brenda Gantt and as the state fair contest maven Linda Skeens.

This is just a teaser of what 2023 has in store! We can't wait to share all of the wonderful content we have planned for the year, and we hope to have you with us for the journey.
